VOL. XVIII.

Senator Eustia's Bill to Expedite Mails—Mr. Hoke Smith Admitted to the Supreme Court—Mr. Follard's Bad Spelling as an Excuse for Rejection—Other Capital Gossip.

Washington, April 22.—[Special.]—The bill of Senator Eustis, of Louisians, to appropri-ate $210,000 to expedite the mails from New ate $210,000 to expedite the mails from New York to New Orleans, by way of Washington, Lynchburg, Atlanta and Montgomery, will receive the strong support of several members of the Georgia delegation. Senator Colquitt, who is on the postoffice committee of the senate, is in favor of the proposition, and is hopeful that it will be agreed to by both houses. The authorities of the Richmond and Danville railroad say that they can quicken the time between Washington and Atlanta three or four hours, and that the time between New Orleans can be made six hours. York and New Orleans can be made six hours quicker than the present schedule, if the pro-posed compensation is granted.

IN THE SUPREME COURT.

Tcday Mr. Hoke Smith, of Atlanta, was admitted to the supreme court and appeared as counsel for defendant in error in case of the Vicksburg and Meridian railroad against Is-rael Putnam, of Atlanta. Mr. Putnam sued for damages received in a collision three years ago, was awarded sixteen thousand dollars in the United States district court at Atlanta. The railroad brought the case up and was represented by Mr. Johnson, of the firm of Hoadly, Johnson & Hoadly, of Cincinnati. The amount involed is, with accrued interest, twenty thousand dollars.

Mr. Morgan said he would call the bill up for consideration at an early day. Bill to provide for taxation on railroad grant lands was discussed until 2 o'clock. The inter-state commerce bill was then placed before the

The Executive Session.

The senate in executive session today took up the case of Charles R. Pollard, of Indiana, nominated to be judge of the supreme court of Montana, vice General Coburn suspended. The case was reported adversely from the judiciary committee, and Senators Edmunds and Hoar spoke against Pollard. Pollard was a confederate and Coburn was a union soldier. Many allegations concerning questionable Many allegations concerning questionable transactions in which Pollard took part when assistant district-attorney in Indiana were discussed. Mr. Voorhees began his speech in favor of Pollard, but gave way for an adjournnessee, made the continuing special order for May 6th.

Mr. Wellborn, of Texas, from the committee on Indian affairs, reported back the Indian appropriation bill with senste amendments, with the recommendation that some of the amendments be agreed to and others nonconcurred in.

The recommendation was agreed to, and Messis Wellborn, Peel & Perkins appointed as a committee of conference.

Adverse reports were presented from the judiciary committee by Mr. Tacker, of Virginis, on the joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment giving the president power to veto specific items in the appropriation bills; and also on bills to prevent the adulteration of food, and they were laid on the table. In regard to the latter bills, the committee believe them to be unconstitutional, so far as they affect several states, and so far as they affect the District of Columbia, they are not properly within the province of the committee.

they are not properly within the province of the committee.

At the expiration of the morning hour, the house went into committee of the whole, and again took up the river and harbor bill.

The disputed Monongahela river clause was still under discussion.

Finally, after several amendments had been adopted, Mr. Hewitt moved to strike out the whole of the clause, with the exception of the appropriation and restriction upon its use. Agreed to, 97 to 69.

Then amendment after amendment was offered and provisos were adopted only to be stricken out in a few moments, until the members were unable to determine exactly what each amendment did or did not mean. As finally agreed to by the committee, the clause

After concluding the consideration of twenty-eight of the sixty-three pages of the bill, the committee arcse.

Mr. O'Neill, of Missouri, again attempted to secure the adoption of his resolution, declaring that the house sympathizes with Mr. Gladstone and his associates in their efforts to secure a free parliament for the people of Ireland, and congratulating the people of that country on the prospect of an early and successful termination of this long and patriotic struggle for ocal self-government, but Mr. Swope, of Pennsylvania, interposed the fatal objection, and though he subsequently withdrew it, the demand for the regular order prevented action on the resolution.

A COMMISSION OF LABOR. The President Sends in a Message With that Suggestion.

Washington, April 22.—The president to-Washington, April 22.—The president to-day sent to congress a message calling atten-tion to the gravity of the existing situation of the labor question throughout the entire country, expressing the opinion that the proper theory upon which to proceed is that of volun-tary arbitratien as a means of settling the difficulties described, and suggesting that there be created a commission of labor, consisting of three members, who shall be regular officers of the government, charged, among other daties, with the consideration and settlement, when possible, of all controversies between labor and capital.

FOLLARD'S RAD SPELLING.

In the senate executive session this afternoon the nomination of Mr. Pollard, of Indians, to be associate justice of the supreme court of Montana, was considered. The principal charge against Pollard is that he is ignorant, and to substantiate it several letters written by him were introduced. In one he spells horse 'hose' and commits other cornities of a like character. His letters created considerable amusement, but his case went over without action. If Pollard should be rejected for bas belling, he can retailate on more than one senator with evidence ample to convict.

Fettlion From the Knights of Labor-Other Business.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In the senate to day, a large number of potitions were presented from local assemblies of Knights of Labor, on motion of Mr. Edmunds, agreed that when it adjourned today it be until Monday.

Mr. Sewell offered an amendment covering a number of points, one of which was to subject to the provisions of the bill Canadian roads having through traftic from points in the United States to be scaboard. Also roads running through only one state in competition with roads that run through several states to the sample to the provisions of the bill Canadian roads having through traftic from points in the United States to be scaboard. Also roads running through only one state in competition with roads that run through several states to the sample of the session, but no vote was taken.

Mr. That persons or exportations engaging in interstate commerce shall first get license to be revocable for a breach of the conditions. The discussion of points covered by this amendment occupied for a breach of the conditions. The labor troubles was laid before the sense to be revocable for a breach of the conditions. The labor troubles was laid before the sense to be revocable for a breach of the conditions. The labor troubles was laid before the sense to be revocable for a breach of the conditions. The labor which to proceed is that of voluntary arbitration as a means of settling these difficulties. But I suggest that, instead of arbitrators chosen in the heat of conflicting claims, and after each dispute shall arise, there be created a commission of labor, consisting of three members, who shall be regular officers of the government, charged, among other duties, with the consideration and settlemant, when possible, of all controversies between labor and capital. A commission thus organized would have the advantage of being a stable body, and its members as they gained experience would constantly improve in their ability to deal intelligently and usefully with question which might be submitted to them. If arbitrators are chosen for temporary service, as each case of dispute arbses, experience and facilitation sought on either side, and frequent complaints of unfairness and partiality will be a qualification sought on either side, and frequent complaints of unfairness and partiality will be inevitable. The imposition upon a federal court of a duty, foreign to itsljudicial function as the selection of an arbitrator in such cases, is at least of doubtful propriety.

The establishment by federal authority of such a bureau, would be a just and sensible recognition of the value of labor, and of its right to be represented in the departments of the government. So far as its concillatory offices had a relation to disturbance which interfered with transit and commerce between the states, its existence would be justified, under the provisions of the constitution, which gives congress the power 'to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states,' and in frequent disputes between laboring men and their employers, of less extent, and the consequences of which are confined within state limits and threaten domestic violence, the interposition of such a commission might be tendered upon application of a legislature or the executive of a state under the constitutional provision which requires the general governm room of the house committee on elections were kept closed this morning until the special committee investigating the causes and extent of the labor troubles in the west were prepared to proceed with the examination of Jay Gould.

Across the hall outside the room was a striped barrier beyond which were allowed to pass only the members of the committee, representatives of the Knights of Labor, several gentlemen accompanying Mr. Gould, including his counsel, General Swayne and Vice-President Hooking, payspages were and several members. Hopkins, newspaper men and several members of congress who were animated with curiosity to hear the testimony of the great financier. As that gentleman arose to take the oath, all eyes were fixed upon him and his response "I do" was given in a low tone.

The Chairman—It is the desire of the committee, Mr. Gould, that you give us testimony in respect to the investigation in which we are engaged; and, for the time, I leave the examination to Mr.

Burnes;
The witness wished to know the scope of the resolution under which the committee was acting.

Mr. Burnes stated that a select committee had been suthorized by the house of representatives to investigate the causes and extent of the disturbed condition now existing between railroad comporations engaged in carrying interstate commerce and their employes in Illinois, Missouri, Ransas, Arkansas and Texas.

Mr. Gould—It is true that the Missouri Pacific runs through some of these states, but at this time we have no difference with our men and are not, strictly speaking, within the rule of that resolution. But I will be very glad to spend my time in talking to the committee, though I hardly think they want to spend their valuable time in talking to me.

they want to spend their valuable time in talking to me.

Being requested, however, to proceed, Mr. Gould went on to give his testimony in a low voice, which was generally calm, but which now and then trembled slightly as though it were shaken with excitement or emotion. Attimes he removed his gold rimmed spectacles and paused in his speech as he carefully wiped them with his hand-kerchief. Behind him sat General Swayne, who relieved him of the work of reading printed matter, and whom he now and then consulted in an undertone.

"On the 15th of April," he began, "we had in the transportation department 337; in the machinery department 437; in the machinery department 457; in the capmer and 505; in the broad of 505; in the 15th of 5 Texarkana. They took forcible possession of them and said a No manishall run a traintover that road." That is what they said. What did Mr. Hoxie do? He said, 'They have taken possession of our road. We have got no carnings now.' And he was forced to write an address to all the men, suspending payments. And thus 10,000 men who were loyal to the company, who could run our rains every day, were deprived of their work and of their power to earn their wages. That was what followed the strike—selzure; you can call it by no other word-forcible selzure—something that the ezar of Russia would hesitate to do with his millions of soldiers behind him.

Mr. Hoxie's address to the men was then read by Mr. Swayne. As he was reading it Mr. Powders to Mr. Gould. The chairman—What was Hall charged with? What crime had he committed? What was the reason of discharge?

The chairman—What was Hall charged with? what crime had he committed? What was the reason of discharged? What was the reason of discharged. What was the reason of the Gould, read the statement issued by Receiver Brown deciding that Hall was an incompetent man and he was discharged for absenting himself without leave. He also read the circular issued by the Missouri Tacine on the ninth of March, notifying all persons who had quit the employ of the company since March fitth, that their names were no longer on the rolls, and that they must leave the premises of the company; also the notice of March 10th, advertising for mechanics and laborers to fill the places of the strikers, and stating that all good and competent men would be employed regardless of their present or past connection with the Knights of Labor.

This reading being ended, Mr. Gould proceeded. He said:

This brings the status of the strike down to the tenth of March. At that time the strikers had taken possession of the line. When we undertook to run trains they would "kill" engines, and if this were not sufficient they would uncouple cars, or would assault the trainmen who undertook to get the train out. Day after day, we were met by that opposition. Then the governers of Missouri and Kansas, who had been arbitrators of the agreement of March. 1885, under which we had been acting, were called on to meet at Kansas City. There they head everything the strikers had to say. After hearing both sides they prepared a formal report which was published. The report was read by Mr. Swayne. It declares that the strike of March, 1886, was not based on a violation by the company of the terms of agreement of March, 1885.

Mr. Gould then resumed his statement. He said that the correspondence shows pretty conclusively the truth of the proverse had to the co have it in contemplation tomorrow to vindicate myself by issuing an order taking away their charter."

i said: "Mr. Powderly, you have been so frank with me that I will be equally frank with vou. Now, I will read you a dispatch which I have prepared to send to Mr. Hoxle. I get down town tomerrow morning at half past nine and will sond it then." I took out of my poeket and read to him my dispatch to Mr. Hoxle directing preference in employment to be given to the late employes whether Knights of Labor or not.) Now I do not know how that can be twisted so as tomake it mean something different from what it says. I read it over to Mr. Powderly just as distinctly as I have read it to the committee. Mr. Powderly said: "I approve of that, and it will help ne if you will give me a copy of it." I said: "Certainly, I will do that."

That brought our interview to a close. I went upstairs and copied the dispatch in a note addressed to Mr. Powderly, and gave it to Mr. McDowell to deliver to him. There was no right on the part of Mr. McDowell or of Mr. Powderly to give the dispatch to the public until I had put it into Mr. Hoxie's hands. They went out of town and changed the whole programme next morning. The newspapers came out, publishing this, and saying on the part of Mr. Powderly: "Mr. Gould has consented to our plan of arbitration." That was published broadcast. It was utterly untrue—utterly untrue. As for the question of arbitration, I have always been in favor of arbitration. It has been rather a kind of hobby of mine, and therefore, I said in my dispatch to Mr.

utterly untrue—utterly untrue. As for the question of arbitration, It has been rather a kind of hobby of mine, and therefore, I said in my dispatch to Mr. Hoxie, "We see no objection to arbitration."

Mr. Gould here read stenographic notes of the interview between him and Mr. Powderly, and centinued, "I believe that at the investigation yesterday there was reference to a letter of fustruction. There was no letters sent except Mr. Powderly's letters. What Mr. Hoxie meant by a letter of instructions was jmy letter, addressed to Mr. Powderly, which he saw in the newspapers that morning. Of course, he referred to that. I went to say, very distinctly, that there have been no instructions issued other than those embodied in that letter. They have been lived up to by the company from that time to this."

Mr. Crain—You say distinctly there were no secret instructions. On the contrary, we have lived right up to my letter to Mr. Powderly, notwithstanding all the provocation we have received.

Mr. Gould—There were no secret instructions. On the contrary, we have already been made public, including the proclamation of March 29th, issued by the executive board of district assemblies at St. Louis, congratulating the Knights of Labor on their victory and on the manhood and fortitude shown by them. He said that was the address which was issued on the 26th of March, when everything seemed to be lovely. The next address issued by the executive board of district assemblies at St. Louis, congratulating the Knights of Labor on their victory and on the manhood and fortitude shown by them. He said that was the address which was issued on the 26th of March, when everything seemed to be lovely. The next address issued by the executive board of district assembles of the first of the workingmen of the world.

Mr. Gould read the address in a tone of sarcasm.

Mr. Gould read the address in a tone of sarcasm, but not without visible emotion. It was one in which he is spoken of as the grant of incorporated wealth, every dollar of which was built on blood injustice and outrage. He said: "That is the response which three assemblies of Knights of Labor made to our continuing the hand of fellowship which we had held out to them. We commenced operating our road, as I said, when I met Mr. Powderly on Sunday. The whole system was in operation except at Parson and Fort Worth. Our earnings for the first week of April were equal to those of the same week of last wear, and the earnings of the second week in April were $36,000 more than the corresponding week last year, so that, as I said at the beginning of my remarks, it seemed to me that the resolution under which the committee is acting does not really apply to the Missouri Pacific railroad.

Mr. Burnes—Have you any other documents that you wish to submit?

Mr. Gould—I have received several of this sort. I only read this one, because it is an order emanating from the three lodges that govern the Missouri Pacific system.

The Chairman—We will accept that as a speci-Mr. Gould read the address in a tone of sarcasm, ting from the three lodges that govern the Missouri Pactic system.

The Chairman—We will accept that as a specimen of workingmen's literature.

Mr. Gould—I have just received a telegram from Mr. Hoxie stating that the St. Louis papers today published this dispatch sent from here yesterday:

"Push the strike. We have plenty of money to carry it through. John Haves."

Hayes is, I believe, one of the executive committee of the Kuights of Labor. He is the same man who addressed a dispatch to me holding me

Mr. Burnes—It is hardly proper to put that in eyiman who addressed a dispatch to me holding me responsible for the murders in East St. Louis.

Mr. Burnes—It is hardly proper to put that in evidence now. It is a mere hearsay matter and will be investigated when we get to st. Louis.

Mr. Gould—Then I withdraw it.

Mr. Brunes—You spoke of the resolution of the board of directors of the Missouri Pacific railroad with reference to the duties and powers of Mr. Hoxie. Bid you understand that resolution as limiting or controlling your powers as president of the corporation:

Mr. Gould—That happened while I was away. When I left on the fifth of January, an acting president was appointed, and I surrendered, for the time being, my position as president of the board. I did not consider the resolution as having anything to do with the question of the duties and powers of the president.

Mr. Burnes—When you prepared your dispatch to Mr. Hoxie, did you intend it as a peremptory order, or merely as advisory?

Mr. Gould—Not even as advisory. I intended it as a matter of precaution: I meant to put the whole matter in his hands: to give him entire control and to hold him responsible for the results.

Mr. Burnes—Did you send to him, Hortie, or did you cause to be sent to him, either on Monday or the saturday preceding, any other elegram or any other advice?

Mr. Gould—No, sir. My telegram to Mr. Hoxie means just what it says, and we have not changed from that day to this by the crossing of "ts" or dotting of an "i."

Mr. Burnes—In your testimony as to this dispatch to Mr. Hoxie, you seem to dot the principle of arbitration for the settlement of contention between the employers and employee. Give us the results and experience of your cohervations as to how that principle can be carried out practically.

Mr. Gould—Arbitration is getting to be a very casy and popular way of settling difficulties between individuals and corporations and between corporations and their individual employes. I have always been in favor of arbitration, I regard the employes of a railroad company as upon a different feoting from the employes of a manufacturing or other private corporation. A railway corporation acts in two senses—first, as a private or ganization, and second, as a public corporations, having a contract with a state by which it has certain duties to perform. These duties are to be performed, not by railroads and engines [alone, but by the entire organization, and they clothe themselves with public duties, from the president to the lowest employe. They clothe themselves with public duties which appertant to the operation of that railroad as an entirety.

Mr. Hopkins, vice-president of the Missouri Pacific, was then sworn and examined. Hecorroborated generally Mr. Gould's account of interviews with Powderly at which he was present. He had always believed in arbitration so means of exitiement, and he saw no objection even to compulsory arbitration, provided it was made employes had no better friends than the mangers of the road. There were no altagonism between them. The managers wanted to account of interviews with Powderl

FIVE HUNDRED MORE Join the Strikers in St. Louis-A Talk With the Employers.

St. Louis, April 22.—Another step in the aggressive warfare of the striking Knights of Labor upon the Missouri Pacific railroad was taken this morning at 10 o'clock, when five hundred employes of the Missouri Car and Foundry company stonned work and loined hundred employes of the Missouri Car and Foundry company stopped work and 'oined the strike in obedience to the order of District Assembly No. 17. This move had been contemplated ever since the knights found that the company were supplying repair material for the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain shops, It is "claimed by the strikers, the new men are not sufficiently skilled to make their material. not sufficiently skilled to make their material. A committee from the Knights of Labor called upon the vice-president of the company and informed him that unless they ceased from furnishing repair material to the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain companies their men would be ordered out. The vice-president replied that these two companies were among their best customers, and that they would continue as long as they were able to fill all of their orders. The committee then retired and issued an order to the Kuights of Labor employed by the company to quit work this morning.

This order was afterwards sent to the executive board, who indersed it, and the men tive board, who indorsed it, and the men struck. President McMillan was seen by a reporter, and in reply to a question as to his reporter, and in reply to a question as to his future plans, said:

"We shall try to run our works with the new force of men, but if we fail we shall open our works at Cambridge, Ind., which have been closed for some time. If we can't run our business there as we see fit, we shall go out of the business altogether. I would rather see the works idle for five years than to accede to any demands like those made by the Knights of Labor."

EXCITEMENTON THE LAKESHORE, Iwo Hundred Deputies on Board a Train Tr to Arrest the Strikers.

CHICAGO, April 22.—The Lake Shore Rail-road company filed a bill in the superior court road company filed a bill in the superior court this afternoon citing that the company owns certain lands, tracks and terminal facilities in the county which are now being trespassed upon by sixty men not now in its employ, naming the striking switchmen. The bill recites that these men are interfering with the movement of trains, and are in other ways trespassers, and praying for an injunction to prevent their further interference with the operations of the company. Judge Garnett issued writs of injunction against the men this forencon, and at 12:40 p. m. a train loaded with two hundred deputy against the men this forenoon, and at 12:40 p. m. a train loaded with two hundred deputy sheriffs left the Lake Shore depot for the scene of the strike to arrest these men and bring them into court. On board the same train carrying the deputy sheriffs were sixty switchmen who had been employed to take the place of the strikers. The deputies were all armed with hickory clube, displaying no firearms. The new switchmen had also been sworn in as deputy aberiffs. In addition to the regular deputies, there were forty men from Pinkerton's agency and about sixty from three other detective agencies. A squad of twenty-five policemen were taken from the 22d street station and posted along the track for some distance north of Thirty-ninth street within the city limits. The train stopped at Thirty-ninth street. Here a commantice of striking switchmen waited upon Superintendent Amsden and asked him to allow one of the men to go finto the rear car and address them. In accordance with the request, Tom Collins got on a car and spoke as follows:

"We want you men to hear our side of this matter. You have heard the company's side and you should hear both sides. Come over to our hall and hear us and if you do not went to go there, fix any other place. Come out and lalk it over. This is a question between capital and labor and the time has come that the conflict has to take this shape. We do not want to injure the company's property but we want our rights."

Collins left the car followed by three of the imported switchmen, and the cars were surrounded by the strikers and their friends,

Collins left the car followed by three of the imported switchmen, and the cars were surrounded by the strikers and their friends, who used every argument they could to persuade the switchmen to leave the cars. Up to 2 o'clock seven men had left, some going through the windows and some out of the doors. About 2:000 men surrounded the train at Root street. The crowd increased momentarily until fully 5:000 men were in the yards. The critical moment was at 2:30 p.m. Engine 458, with Engineer Caddy, came out of the roundhouse clanging its bell loudly. Ten deputy sheriffs guarded it on the front, sides and the rear. Before the engine reached the main track the deputies were almost lost in a mass of excited men who crowded the tracks. Tom Collins mounted the engine and began talking to the engineer. The wheels soon stopped, and Collins was heard to say:

"Be kind enough to do this. You are no capitalist. For God's sake, run that engine back for us laboring men. Do it; will you?"

The engineer reached for his lever. The great wheels revolved, and the engine started back to the roundhouse, amid deafening cheers from the switchmen and their friends. When

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

Measure Given to the Public-What it Propose or the Relief of the People of Ireland-Mast-ings for and Against It-Other Interest-, ing News From the Old World:

Lendon, April 22.-The Irish land purchas bill which the house of commons last Friday night gave Mr. Gladstone permission to introduce was issued today. It covers twenty air pages. The bill is divided into five parts. There are fifty-three clauses and four schodnles.

The bill provides that a landlord who is desirous to sell his property shall apply to the state authority. The latter shall refer the application thus made to the land commission, which, after making an inquiry, shall fix the price at which the property shall be sold, unless the landlord and state authorities have previously come to the agreement. If the landlord objects to the price fixed by the commission, he may withdraw his application on paying costs. When the sale of the property has been affected, the commission shall commission, he may withdraw his application on paying costs. When the sale of the property has been affected, the commission shall pay the creditors before making any other distribution of the purchase money? Certain reat charges may be bought outright by the state authority or payment may be continued from the tenant's repayments. In cases of property whereon there is reasonable cause to suppose that valuable minerals exist, the commission shall add to the purchase money a fair sum therefor, and the minerals realized from said property shall be vested in state authority or such local body as the Irish legislature may provide.

An Irish receiver general and deputies, who are to execute the financial part of the act shall be appointed to hold office as permanent civil servants, subject to the authority of the treasury. They shall be paid from the imperial exchequer, but the Irish government shall appoint actual collectors. If the receiver-general, or any of his-deputies shall be guilty of malfeasance, the culprit shall forfeit the sums so lost. Also shall be subjected to a fine of 500 pounds.

The measure empowers the treasury to create three classes of permanent annuities, bearing interest, respectively, at 3, 24, and 24 percent, and which shall be charged to the imperial censolidated fund.

Strict rules are provided by the bill which forbid subdividing or subletting of a holding so long as it is subject to any state charge, but the state authority is empowered to release these rules, where he may think it advisable. Other points of bill were fully covered by Mr. Gladstone's speech of Friday evening last.

A great mass meeting of liberals and radicals was hold in St. James hall this evening. Mr. Labouchere, calluding to a recent conservation at the liberal and home rule meeting at the opera house, said that Lord Hartington was an honorable man; Mr. Goschen, an able man, and Mr. Rylands, a fluent man, but they had no more right to speak in the name of the people of England than had "the three tailors of Tooley s

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Leicester, a member of parliament, and supported by Mr. Lawson, and was carried unanimously, as was also a resolution authorizing the chairman to sign a petition to the house of commons in favor of the bill.

Germany and France.

Berlin April 22.—The North German Gazette, Bismarck's organ, in a further article on the possibility of war between France and Germany, eys it has no doubt that France would take the first suitable opportunity to revenge herself upon Germany. The Gazette remarks, however, that if Germany remains calm it has no fear for the result, although it recognizes that the French are a brave and dangerous enemy, and that they have made great strides in military strength since the revolution.

Convention.

Columbus, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—When Mr. Felix J. Jenkins awoke this morning it was to find that burglars had visited his residence during the night and carried away about $250 worth of silverware, cutlery, clothing, etc. They entered through a window, and seem to have gone through nearly every room in the house. Among the silverware stolen were several pieces received by Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins as bridal presents. They even took down lace curtains and carried them off. They also stole Mr. Jenkins's pants, which had about four dollars in the pockets; also two or three of Mrs. Jenkins's dresses. They left behind them a pair of spectacles and a knife which they used in opening the window. They carried Mr. Jenkins's overcoat as far as the front door and deciding the weather was too warm left it there. The burglary was one of the coolest and most daring that has been committed here in years. The police are doing their best to capture the guilty parties. The orphan asylum and the residence of Mr. N. L. Dudley were also visited by burglars this morning, but they were frightened away before effecting an cutrance.

SENSATION IN GRIFFIN.

Over the Surreptitious Removal of a Stock of GRIFFIN, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—There has been great excitement and indignation here today, over a bold and daring deed committed last night in the very heart of the city.

Three days ago W. B. Hammond sold his stock of goods to Mickleberry & Lewis, of Atlanta. or goods to Mickleberry & Lewis, of Atlanta. Yesterday evening the store was locked and the key was turned over to a friend of Mr. Mickleberry. This morning between one o'clock and day, the store was opened and the entire stock of goods were removed, and today the whereabouts of the goods and the names of the parties who committed the deed are shrouded in mystery. Mr. Mickleberry left here for Atlanta this morning. He returned this for Atlanta this morning. He returned this afternoon, and says he knows nothing about it. Policeman Glass was on duty at the time. Charges have been preferred against him. He says that he met an alderman at the store, and was erdered away. The alderman being chairman of the police committee, he obeyed. The alderman refuses to give any explanation in the matter. The affair will be thoroughly sifted, as our people demand that their property be protected and that officers do heir duty.

BLOOMFIELD'S GRIT.

He Will Not Be Forced Into Hiring Men He Does Not Want.

ATHENS, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—Some time since, Mr. R. L. Bloomfield, president of the Athens factory, dismissed Mr. John W. Black, superintendent of the upper factory, from his services, it is charged, on account of Mr. Black being a Knight of Labor. It was upplished in Chieggo that this factory had published in Chicago that this factory had been boycotted, and today a Banner-Watchman reporter met Mr. Bloomfield and asked him if it was true.

"We have not been boycotted as yet," was the reply, "sithough I am in constant receipt ef letters from officers of the Knights of La-bor demanding that I reinstate Mr. Black in bor demanding that I reinstate Mr. Black in his place. Mr. Powderly also wrote me but I never replied to his letter, as he is too far away. I do not know what will be the re-sult, but I certainly shall not employ Mr. Black, or any other Knight of Labor, as su-perintendent of one of the factories under my perintendent of one of the factories under my control. I am on good terms with my hands, and anticipate no trouble."

A COLD PROCEEDING Which Will Turn Out Forty Pounds of Ice at

ATHENS, Ga., April 22-[Special.]-Mr. Connachers, who came to our city a couple of years ago, has an invention that he thinks is now perfect. It is a machine for the manufacture of artificial ice at a cost of a few moments' labor each day. Mr. Counachers is now putting up one of his machines in the Commercial hotel, that was built by the Athens foundry, Maddrey & Jones, and it will soon be given a practical test. Mr. Connachers is rather reticent about discussing his invention, but it is learned that he claims for it that it will be of different sizes, the cheapest cost-ing $25, with a capacity of 500 pounds of ice per day, or forty pounds is turned out every twenty minutes. It is necessary to charge the machine once, which costs but little, and at any time when you want ice have only to make someone turn a crank for twenty when a forty-pound block is formed.

Athens, Ga., April 22.—Special.]—There were indictments against seven of the citizens of Athens before the present grand jury for buying votes at the last municipal election. On yesterday the bills were returned with "no bill" marked on them, and that the prosecution was malicious and unfounded; that an attachment be issued against J. W. HOW THEY EVADE THE DRY LAW. From the Hawkinsville, Ga., Dispatch.

Down in the counties of Montgomery, Tatnall, Wayne, Telfair and Coffee, some parties are making money selling receipts for making whisky by compounding alcohol, calamus root, glycerine, etc. It is perhaps as villainous a decoction as was ever discovered for the purpose of befuddling a man's brain. While down at Douglas last week we heard considerable talk about it. When Sheriff John Hall, kindly noticing our forlorn look, invited us to take a "pull" at a black bottle, late one evening, we asked: "Sheriff, is this some of that calamity juice manufactured out of stump water at five cents a pint?" The sheriff responded promptly in the negative, and we took a smell, and it was the genuine spirits fruments. Our handsome and jolly friend W. N. Nash, tried some of the domestic bug juice that had just been made in a tin bucket, and he said it smelt like whisky, it looked like whisky, it tasted like whisky, and he reckoned it was whisky, for he believed it would make a man hostile. The receipts are sold to individuals for $2.50. Family rights are sold for $5.

Lexington and Crawford are as different as if settled by two nations of people. Lexington reminds one of a retired and somewhat seedy old gentleman, who still preserves all the hospitality and dignity of his more prosperous and younger days, and delights to entertain the visitor with the story of his past grandeur. Crawford is a hardy young frontiersman, looking with hopeful and expectant eye to the future. Oglethorpe county has been the cradle of Georgia's greatest men, and it was from Lexington that they embarked on the sea of life. Every one of the imposing old buildings that form the town is a part of the history of our state, and could the walls speak would tell a story rich in interest. Old citizens can remember when Lexington was the great mart of northwest Georgia, and the ladies of Athens would there buy their finest goods. But when the railroad was built, leaving the town stranded three miles to the left, its trade disappeared and the place gradually perished of the dry rot. But there is a quiet refinement and warm-hearted hospitality about the town that nothing can rob the people of. A Lexingtonian is rarely in a hurry, and the air of antiquity that surrounds him seems to penetrate the very system of the people. During the dull season the male inhabitants delight to congregate in little groups around the store doors, and a stranger would think that a Rip dull season the male inhabitants delight to congregate in little groups around the store doors, and a stranger would think that a Rip Van Winkle sleep had seized upon the place. The Butler Herald takes up the convict question, and says:

The time is not far distant when our legislators will be called upon to decide whether or not our convict system shall remain as it is. Already we can hear intimations of its coming. Laborers who have to provide for themselves and their families feel that it is impossible to compete with convict labor. Such competition would be ruinous and degrading to the laborer. Up to the present time the great want of our state has been more labor: is there now a sufficiency of labor to feel the competition of convict labor? If so, then our wise lawmakers had best devise some other than our present convict system. What that system shall be we shall not pretend to hint, for we have not the faintest idea what it should be. But sooner or later something will have to be done, and we trust our people will not wait until driven by stern necessity to act.

THE W. C. T. U. INTERESTING SESSION

The Temperance Ladice of Georgia Meet in Sessi in Macon, and Give Interesting Reports of Their Progress-General News in the City-Personal and Otherwise.

MACON, Ga., April 22.-[Special.]-The Woman's Christian Temperance union of Georgia is now holding its sessions in this city, at Mulberry Street Methodist church. This body met in Columbus last year, and was expected to meet in Sayannah, but the sickness and absence of Mrs. Webb, the president of the Savannah union, interfered with that arrange-ment, and the Macon union gladly accepted the opportunity of entertaining the conven-tion. About twenty-five of the unions are represented. In the case of those not represented personally by delegates, written rep have been sent in, showing a widespread interest throughout the state in the work of the organization. The leaders of the convention urge the establishment of unions in the prohibition counties as well as in those where th liquer traffic exists. They believe that temperance education and woman's work are necessary after the adoption of the prohibitory law as well as before.

THE GOVERNING FORCES. Mrs. W. C. Sibley, of Augusta, is the president. She presides over the meetings with great ease and dignity. Miss M. H. Stokes, of Decatur, is secretary. She makes a thoroughly efficient officer. Perhaps none of the workers in the cause are so systematic and business-like in their labors as this good lady. She is a clean and compacting it all he says that business-like in their labors as this good lady. She is so clear and accurate in all she says that one of the delegates remarked, that what Miss Stekes said would read well if taken down in short hand and reported without revision. Miss Emma Stewart, of Oxford, is the recording secretary. She too has a thoroughly business method, and is able at a moment's notice to lay her hand upon any resolution that may be called for. She is assisted by the beautiful and accomplished Miss Lillian Russell, of Augusta.

A genuine surprise would await any one who looked in upon the convention, having in his mind the current opinions about what women do when they get together. Several gentlemen who have attended the sessions have remarked that in all their lives they have never seen a conven-tion in which parliamentary order was more strictly observed, or in which the convention addressed itself steadily and cansecutively to the work before it.

The devotional exercises of the day were conducted by Mrs. W. C. Sibley.

A telegram was received from Sandersville, announcing the majority for prohibition in Washington county.

A letter was read from Mrs. Early Hurt, of Columbus, Ga., expressing her regret at her inability to be present and her sympathy with and devotion to the temperance work.

REPORTS FROM THE UNIONS.

The morning session was mainly occupied with reports from a large number of the local unions. Those in northeast Georgia and those at Geneva, Talbotton, Hamilton were reported by the secretary. The union at Chipley was reported by Mrs. Hunt. She stated that all the young men in the place, except four, were honorary members of the union. The Oxford union was reported by Mrs. Emma. Stewart. honorary members of the union. The Oxford union was reported by Mrs. Emma Stewart. She mentioned that over two hundred young men had pledged themselves to the principles of the W. C. T. U., and referred to the prize offered by the ladies to the students of Emory college annually for the best essay on some phase of the prohibition question. Cechran was represented by Mrs. James A. Thomas, who has lately become a resident of Macon. She described the earnest and effective work which was done by the ladies of Hawkinsville and Cochran in the late election, and which contributed so largely to the heavy majority in favor of prohibition in that tion, and which contributed so largely to the heavy majority in favor of prohibition in that county. Americus was reported by Mrs. C. W. Hancock. She stated that their union was but recently organized; they had gone heartily into the work, and that the local option issue would ere long be presented in Saunter county. Albany was reported in a letter from Mrs. Thomas Willingham, the president of the union at that noint in which she ident of the union at that point, in which she asks the prayers of the convention and of the various unions for the success of the good cause in Dougherty county, when the issue should be presented there. Butler was reported by Mrs. Brown, who stated that a union was not yet formed there, but that delegates had been sent here to obtain the necessary in-formation for the organization of one at that

She em-phasized the importance of these studies to motherhood and childhood, especially in re-ference to the use of alcoholic stimulants. She said: "A mother saved is a family saved." She said: "A mother saved is a naminy saved." Saved took strong grounds against the common use of intoxicants as family medicines. Her address recalled to the reporter the remark of a family physician, that "Drunkenness was more common among infants than any other class." By which he meant to say that the toddies inconsiderately given to very young children as medicines in order sometimes to quiet them when crying, really paralyzed and stupefied their brains, so that, in plain English, they were druk their brains, so that, in plain English, they were drunk.

Mrs. Hicks discussed the effect of such usages on the future health and vigor of children.

The convention unanimously passed a vote of thanks to her for her valuable essay.

The importance of the subject was emphasized by Mr. R. D. Wilson and Mrs. Lord.

The following committee on nomination was announced: Mrs. Chondler, Mrs. Lord, Mrs. Houston, Mrs. Hancock, Mrs. Bryaut.

THE EVENING SESSION.

At 8 o'clock the house was called to order by Mrs. Sibley, the president. Immediately after a song by the congregation, followed by a prayer by Dr. W. F. Cook. After which Mrs. Sibley introduced Rev. J. W. Neal, of Atlanta, who did credit to himself by making one of the finest and most appropriate speeches ever listened to. The speaker was interrupted by some one in the audience by the announcement that Dooly county went dry by a small majority; also Washington county by two hundred majority, when the speaker said:

that has got any sense that will vote for liquor."

He was again interrupted by cheers.

Below are some of his points. He said:
They say "It will injure our trade." "I do not think we ought to do anything that will injure our trade." Then the speaker went on to show that instead of destroying trade it would increase it. "Now, I want to say that prohibition is going to succeed, and it is going to win because there is nothing that has ever been agitated unless it was settled right, and it will never be right until we get the whisky away from here. I do not believe thirty years from this time there will be a barroom in this state."

After speaking for thirty minutes he retired.

A telegram from Miss Emmie Stewart, of Oxford, announced that Newton had gone dry.

Mrs. Sibley introduced Mrs. Chipley, of South Caroliua, The lady went on to say that she was not a speechmaker, but said she would make a few remarks. She said:

"She who knows the value of a child—no one but the woman mother—knows but what this strong drink will take her darling away from her."

said:

"You men are shutting up husbands in the penitentiary and leaving wives and children unprofected, and yet you call it chivalry. You have so much sympathy for the saloon keeper until you have forgot the poor widows." "The saloon keeper is worse than a highway robber, for a robber would only say your life or your money, while the saloon keeper says both."

"Let a county go dry and you find a half dozen drugstores set up, just as if half the people were dying because the county was prohibition."

The lady then closed, when Mr. W. H. Hill.

At evening hour the report of the state secretary will be read which will give a clear idea of the entire work of the union throughout Georgia.

Merchants Victimized.

MACON, April 22 .- [Special.] -In December from January last a man representing an alleged firm named Paulding & Co., solicited advertising from Macon merchants to go in hotel registers, to be placed in twenty hotels, including those of Macon and the towns contiguous thereto. Paulding & Co. represented that they had bought the right from the Hare Co., of Chicago, who have a patent on hotel registers. Chicago, who have a patent on hotel registers.
They obtained a large amount of advertising and collected therefor. Today a representative of the Hare company called on the Macon advertisers and informed them that Paulding & Co. were frauds and that the hotels would not use the registers. So a number of Macon merchants are sold again. Through the columps of a newspaper is the only legitimate way to advertise. But, perhaps, experience is

Coffee county is what is known as a "dry" county, the sale of liquor having been stooped in the county a few years ago by an act of the legislature. Tae Hawkinsville Dispatch, speaking of the cultivation of sea island cotton in Coffee county, says:

They assured us that sea island cotton is the most profitable product of their farms, and its cultivation is becoming general. Very few are now cultivating upland cotton, as the soil of the county will produce about as much sea island cotton as upland, and sea island cotton is worth from 1s to 21 cents per pound, or three times as much as upland, and sea island cotton is worth from 1s to 22 cents per pound, or three times as much as upland cotton. Hon Elijah Paulk, the ordinary of the county, was the first to establish in his settlement a gin for the cleaning of sea Island cotton. Last season he had three gins in operation at Willacochee, a station on the Brunswick and Western railroad. Next season he will have five gins running. These gins cost more and cannot gin as fast as the gins used for upland cotton. The average weight of a bale of sea Island cotton is 350 pounds, and an acre and a half to two acres, if moderately fertilized, will produce a bale of 350 pounds, worth 18 to 24 cents per pound. Judge Paulk will cultivate this year eighty acres in sea island cotton. Some call it sea island, some speak of it as "long staple," and others call it "black seed cotton," Ilon. Walter T. Mearthur, of Montgomery county, raised on his farm last year eight bales of soa island cotton, and sold it in Savannah at 245 cents per pound. He bought his seed on the coast of South Carolina. He thinks that the seed will deteriorate on the soil of his section of Georgia. He has in operation a fine gin that he bought in Oldham, England, since his visit to that country three years ago. Judge Paulk and Mr. MeArthur both believe that sea island cotton is the coming industry of their country.

THE Baptist conventions always bring together a class of men whose religion is not merely sentimental, but strongly practical. There is no place for dreamers to fill. The body now in session in Rome is no exception to the rule.

NEWTON county, following the example of Washington county, has voted "against the sale." In Dooly, however, the result was in favor of the sale of liquor. The black spots on the map of Georgia are being gradnally whitewashed.

No HIGHER tribute could be paid to Mr. Davis during his Atlanta visit than the call of the school children upon him. When they grow to maturity Mr. Davis will have passed away, but they will ever cherish it as a special privilege to have seen him.

THE message of President Cleveland. printed elsewhere, is an important step toward a recognition of the demands of labor. He proposes the establishment of a labor commission, which shall have power to offer their services in the settlement of disputes between employer and employe,

Jobs and Schemes.

The fact that the Georgia delegation in congress is unanimously opposed to the Hennepin canal scheme is a very gratifying one. It is a scheme to tax the entire country to build a canal in which only a few states are interested. It is not a national affair at all, of the jobs which are natural result of the public and private demoralization brought about by republican

The Hennepin canal project may be a very good thing in itself; it may be necessary to the development of the commerce of the northwest; but the more desirable and the more necessary it is, the more reason why the states and communities which are directly interested should depend on their own money and their own enterprise to push the scheme to a conclusion. If the canal is absolutely necessary to the commerce of the section through which it is to run, then the people of that section should build it. At any rate, there is no reason why the people of the whole country should be taxed to build it.

What is here said of the Hennepin canal scheme may be also said of the so-called Mississippi river improvement scheme. For years vast sums of the people's money have been sunk in that mysterious current, and the so-called improvement is no further advanced now than it was when the work of damming the river with greenbacks began. The building of levees and the attempts to keep the stream within its banks are matters pertaining to the welfare of the people of the states through which the Mississippi runs; but the whole country has been taxed vast sums that have been worse than thrown away. The river overrides the "improve ments," overflows large districts, and cute new channels. The more it is improved the more uncontrollable it becomes, and it seems to us that a democratic house should set an example of caution and economy in this di-

So far as the Tehanntepec ship cana scheme is concerned, it is too wild and visionary to talk about, and the only wonder is that reputable men could have been found in congress to give it their countenance and encouragement. All such schemes should be ed in the bud promptly and effectually. The democrats should bear in mind that they have promised to give the people honest an economical government.

The Progress of Cremation

The rapid adoption of cremation, in theo if not in practice, both in this country and in Germany, Italy and other European countries, is not generally appreciated. The move ment to overthrow earth burial is not much over ten years old, and yet the custom of centuries is wavering, and intelligent people in everycity of the land are ready to welemation. Crematories are going up in the larger cities, and it is not unreason able to anticipate the ection of a crematory within ten years in every town of fifty thousand people in the lane Many lesser towns will erect furnaces also Ten years ago the only furnace for the burning of ruman bodies in the country was Dr. Le Moyne's at Washington, Pennsylvania.

There is really no reason why cremation should not make rapid progress. The burial of bodies is repulsive to the senses and imagination; it is expensive; it involves the trade of the grave-robbers, and it poisons the air and water of the living. Purification by fire is a perfect safeguard against all these evils. And what is good for the cities is also best for the country. If the question were left to the doctors and sanitarians-to those who really understand the dangers of the present method of disposing of the dead -the acceptance of the new method would not be long delayed. Prejudice, sentiment and custom are behind earth burial, and nothing else. There is a notion in some minds that dissolution of the body by fire and the doctrine of the resurrection of the body are antagonistic but Bishop Coxe, of Buffalo, who is fanatically opposed to cremation, admits "that dogma has nothing to say about it; a Christian may be burned without loss to his soul." He is even willing to accept cremation if followed by a formal interment of the ashes. But prejudices exist, and old customs are not easily overthrown. The protection of the living will, however, compel the adoption of the better method, and the sanita rians should speak out plainly and fre-

Greece and Turkey.

The more the powers threaten Greece with orders to disarm and with movements of their fleets, the more the little kingdom seems determined to fight. Her rulers have spent so much money in preparing for war, and have worked up so great a desire for war among the people, it is difficult to find a way out of the dilemma except through a declaration of war. But a declaration of war would necessarily result in quick disaster. Turkey has, on the very border of Greece, a vastly better and larger army, and the Turkish commander says he can march to and into Athens in two weeks.

The situation is full of distresses. Greece has a grievance as well as a reasonable ambition. She did not get the territory assigned her by the treaty of Berlin, and she naturally wants all Greek-speaking people added to her population. She wants a large slice of Turkey, and Crete and many other islands of the archipelago. And yet she seems to have no backing among the powers. Russia may, it is true, be friendly, but Russia does not seem inclined to lift a hand in her behalf. The most that Greece has to go upon is the sympathy of intelligent people in all parts of Europe. She has not been justly treated, and all the world is in sympathy with her. But this sympathy nowhere takes practical form. If, however, Turkey proceeds to crush the little country after war has begun, we may hear from Russia, also. It is plain that relief from any other quarter is not to be expected. If Russia will not befriend her she must again subside, and endeavor to be patient and meet her bills on account of war preparations. Things should be otherwise, but they will probably continue to refuse to put themselves on a sentimental basis.

Now is Our Time.

The success attending the manufacture of Bessemer steel at Chattanooga, reported in our telegraphic columns, the other day, is now the main topic of discussion in the business circles of the country. Nothing that has occurred in the south in ten years has excited such intense interest in commercial and industrial centers.

We do not need to watch the drift of this new development. We know in advance what it will be. It means the certain and steady shifting of the greatest industrial centers of the country from the north to the more favored regions of the south. With unlimited supplies of iron and coal some of our grestest manufacturing interest can be conducted here at a greater profit than any where else, and this consideration settles the matter. This is the prediction of our ablest northern contemporaries, and they voice the opinion of the capitalists.

Atlanta must meet this new industrial movement half way. With our transportation facilities we are practically in the coal and iron fields. We have commenced our fight against railroad discrimination, and we must win. Our proposed line to the sea will make Atlanta for all time to come the finest distributing point in the south. We occupy the vantage ground now, but a greater field is opening before us than was dreamed of a decade ago, and we must make a strong pull all together if we desire to make Atlanta mistress of the situation. This is no time for half-handed, half-hearted work. Every lick put in now counts. Every dollar rightly spent is a guaranty of future wealth. From this time on there must be no laggards in the race, and no penny wise, pound-foolish calculations. In a word we must act!

A Singular Gift.

The Messrs. Burton, of Tiller's Cross-roads Ala., announce that they have deeded to Jesus Christ three acres of land in Tallapoo county. The land is to be used as the site of a house in which the "laws of the God of heaven may be taught, obeyed, executed and

In order to make their gift bear fruit the Burtons have petitioned congress to build a house of God on the land thus donated: to restore the seventh day of the week as our Sabbath, and to "authorize and allow that after the wisdom of God, magistrates and judges be set in that house, who may judge all the people such as know the laws of God, and teach such of them as know them not And whosoever will not do the laws of God and congress, let the judgment of God be executed speedily upon him, whether unto death or banishment, or to confiscation of goods, or to imprisonment."

There are many queer things in this petition, but the words quoted give its general scope. It concludes as follows: Now, if this our petition shall find favor with congress, and it please congress to grant our request and this our petition, then will we thank and praise the God of heaven who hath put such a thing in the heart of our American congress to beautify the house of God which is to be built in this our native land which we have inherited from our fathers. Then let congress, and whosoever is of a willing heart, freely offer an offering unto the Lord—gold, silver, and such things as are needful to build the house according to the commandment which the Lord delivered unto Moses: "That, of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart ye shall take my offering," that the building of this house be hastened and not hindered. So that the wrath of God be stayed from congress and the

We do not know what the citizens of Tallaposa think of this project, but it is fair to presume that they are in a state of lively expectancy. As yet congress has taken no action.

Few people know the origin of our mos familiar quotations. The other day a Provi-dence, R. I., reporter started out to find the origin of "cleanliness is next to godliness." Several statesmen were interviewed, and they all declared that it was in the Bible. A military man was positive that it first appeared in a scap advertisement. The secretary of state thought it was in Corinthians. A sporting man said he had seen it in the "Marquis of Queensbury Rules." A distinguished general credited Shakspeare with it. A preacher said it was somewhere in the New Testament. The governor of the state studied over it a while, and soid: "God knows who was the author, I and soid: "God knows who was the author, I don't." Finally a colored pieman was spoken to, and he at once said: "Dat's good ole Metundis' doctrin'. John Wesley made it up hisself." The reporter was amazed. He looked into the matter, and in the eighth edition of "Bartlett's Familiar Quotations" found the following: "Cleanliness is indeed next to Sermon on dress. John Wesley, godliness. 1760." So the negro pieman was better posted than the governor, the statesmen, and all the other big men.

Some of the western papers declare that Mr. Cleveland is for free trade. This is very neat way to attack him.

THE Political Science Quarterly, published by Gunn & Co., Boston, is a new periodical of imposing appearance. The first number contains the following articles: "The American Commonwealth," by Professor John W. Bargess; "Collection of Duties," by Frank J. Goodnow . "American Labor Statistics" by Professor Richmond M. Smith; "Legislative Inquests," by Frederick W. Whitridge; "The Berlin Conference," by Daniel De Leon. Pro-fessor Monroe Smith contributes an interesting introduction on 'The Domain of Political Science," and there is a full book review department. The new quarterly is ably edited, but its circulation must necessarily be con fined to the cultured few.

EXTRA BILLY SMITH, a famous governor of Virginia, is in the eighties and is a lively old man. It is believed that fine state of preservation is due to the fact that he carried an um brella when he was in the field during the war.

A LYNCHBURG physician is reported as saying that cigarette smoking is more injurious to the young than stimulating drinks. "THE day steals up the sky," remarks newspaper poet. The day probably graduated in the republican party. THE Delaware shad is simply a piece of white flannel with bones worked in it. It is possible that Dr. Hawthorne's bitter attack upon the Richmond State was provoked by an editorial in that paper just before the loctor's speech. The following extracts show Extremes rarely ever accomplish good. Fanati cism is generally followed by a reaction that means free thought in religion, and that not in the better sense. New England was settled by the Paritans. In the days of the blue laws orthodox evangelical religion was forced upon the people, whether they believed in itor not.

Men and women had an idea that it was wrong to question the teaching of the chosen leaders. Religion of the Puritan type was the law of the land. By and by, after Edwards's day the austere religious life of New England became a burden and a notable reaction took place.

A hundred years ago where did the world look for models of orthodox, evangelical, Sabbath-observing Christians? In New England. Where do was look today for expectations are recognized by the look today for sequicions and except the hotory.

serving christians? In New England. Where do we look today for scepticism and so-called heterodoxy? Boston is the place where new-fangled creeds and the so-called free-thought preachers flourish. In the olden time intolerance prevailed in Massachusetts. Now the people of Boston boast of their "liberal" Christianity, or of having little or no Christianity at all.

The quantity of liquor smuggled into Maine and the quantity consumed in that so-called prohibition stroughold is very great. This is known in a general way to all who will take the trouble to inform themselves. And where torbidden fruit is indulged in the tendency is Induged in the tendency of course, to hypocrisy. It is just a question of time, we predict, when a reaction will take place in Maine; when the prohibition liquor law will be abolished, and when liquor will be sold there more promiseuously than it was before the open liquor traffic was forbidden. The conservatism of Virginia has given strength ad lustre to our God-fearing civilization.

Fanaticism must not supplant this moral conrvatism. Extremes will never succeed in Rich

INSTEAD of writing poetry, Mr. Parnell has written a novel. This shows that he is strongminded.

BOTH the Knights of Labor and the capital ists should remember the words of Macaulov. "The essence of politics is compromise." The man who boasts that he is uncompromising does not know what he is talking about. The man who says he will have it all, frequently gets nothing.

It takes two to make a bargain, and Mr George Wells, of Rochester, Minn., has found it out. A few days ago he took a social drink with his friend, John Leopold, and offered him $100 for his wife. Leopold agreed and the money was paid to him. He promised to take his children and abandon his home leaving his wife there for Wells. When Wells went to take possession of his purchase he found that the children had not been removed, and Mrs. Leopold put in an emphatic protest against being transferred to another husband. Then Wells went and hunted up Leopold and tried to get his money back. But it was no go. Leopold refused to return the cash, and declined to go home.

THE New York Herald has this to say the recent tornado in Minnesota

the recent tornado in Minnesota:

The meteorological notes of the Minnesota tornado, as telegraphed from the scene of the disaster, lend no color to the theory that as civilization at vances over the prairies such storms will become less frequent. The idea that the genesis of such a storm is in any material degree controlled by the topography of the country cwnnot for a moment be entertained. It appears that the greating monster did for a while follow of the direction of the little valley in which it was first observed. But the air masses which gave the meteor its crushing force must have been gyrating with a velocity of much more than two hundred miles an hour, and had early acquired a momentum which would yield to no orographical feature. The clearing of the western soil and covering it with improvements can never really mitigate the effect of tornadoes. The only absolute security for hu man life in the regions known to be subject to these whirlwinds is in subterranean structures, well built and so numerous as to be within easy reach of all. That such retreats can ever be sufficiently multiplied to afford refuge to whole communities is very unlikely. But much may be done toward enhancing safety by such underground structures, especially if due attention is paid to the local monitions of the weather glass and the regular telegraphic weather reports.

THE New York Hour is against slang in the pulpit, It says: pulpit. It says:

It is argued by some pastors, that the classes whom the Evangelists reach can not be affected by ordinary preaching—that it needs a sledge-hammer blow to bring them to their knees. Well, has language lost its power that it can not be forcible unless it is coarse. iniguage lost its power that it can not be forcible unless it is coarse, ungrammatical and rude? Does any one imagine that Xavier or Loyola need the slang of their day when talking to the iznorant thousands whom they reclaimed from Paganism? The most successful revivalist ever known in the United States was George Whitfield, a graduate of the University of Oxford, and a master of elegant English, who, nevertheless, made hims-fi quigerstood alike by negro slaves, "poor white trash," Harvard professors and Philadelphia lawyers per suading wrong doers of all classes to forsake their evil ways. So forcible did he find good English properly used, that on one occasion he preached all the money out of the pocket of irreligious, self ish old Benjamin Franklin.

Entertain the Strangers

From the Waycross, Ga., Reporter. We would like to impress upon our people the mportance of getting acquainted with strangers who are seeking homes among us. A family ought not to be allowed to live for months without re ceiving a call from a neighbor. Many a woman has become homesick for the reason that she has become homesick for the reason that she thought herself slighted by her neighbors. This cught not to be, especially should members of the several churches look after new comers and see that they find encouragement and assistance from those of their own faith and order. This is not proslelyting; but a Christian duty. If the family have no church relation it is none the less a duty of people to make their acquaintance, and by kind acts and Christian work lead them up the better way. Look after new comers and make them feel they are welcome among us, and soon they will not want to leave us.

This, coupled with the fact that Shade had spareribs for breakfast on Tuesday morning, led Julian to suspect that his neighbor had laid violent and unlawful hands on his hog. So he got a search warrant and piloted Balliff Pinkston to Shadas house, where a search revealed a lot of fresh pork on hand. The suspected man was taken in charge and placed in durance vile. Birmingham is the Mecca of gubernatorial candidate pilgrimage just now. First came McKleroy who took a good hand-shaking and left. N. H. R. Dawson has come and gone. Today comes Judge Clayton, the great possibility of Barbour county, who said to your correspondent: "I have come to Birmingham to remain a few days. I regard this a fine point to branch out from."

"Who is the leading candidate in the race!"

N. H. R. Dawson has got idecidedly the bulge so far. He is a man of great popularity and possesses strong personal magnetism. He will carry the bulk of the vote into the convention and will make the riffle about the fourth ballot.

Dawson's pomous Appearance.

Colonel Dawson has a great air of physical force. He is tall and will measure probably six feet two inches. He stands erect and walks with his head thrown back. He wears a slouch hat with a medium brim which gives him a bravado appearance. He is seldom alone and has some friend with him. In conversation he is pleasant and is a good talker. He has not been idle, and has been putting in some good licks. It is thought he will go into the convention with a good delegation, which will be spent on the first ballot. He is an able citizen but has made political blunders that may knife him.

When at last she rose she looked about her in earch of something which she missed, and then walked slowly away, supporting herself by the wall, toward the entrance. The stranger politely effered his arm, which was gratefully accepted, the lady meanwhile explaining that one of the beg gars must have taken her sliver-headed walking stick away, without which she was "very heighless." Outside the church two liveried tootmen were waiting; the stranger on retiring offered his address card (alas, for cruel Nemesis, he was a German from Berlin) glancing at which the lady was seen to shudder slightly and then return the civilty by whispering. AND THE RAILROADS. The Commissioners After a Day and a Haif of Consideration are Still Undecided What to Do About the Discriminations—Other Interesting Railway News—Headlight Plashes.

The railroad commissioners have not yet decided the discrimination case which was argued on Tuesday and Wednesday.

At ten o'clock yesterday morning quite a number of gentlemen who are interested in the decision gathered at the office of the commission, believing that the decision would be announced. All the commissioners were present, but Major Wallace announced that there would be no public session of the commission during the day. The crowd then dispersed.

During the day the commissioners were in close consultation, but by night they had not agreed. It is expected that they will agree very soon, but what they will do cannot be

The commissioners refuse to say anything for publication just now, but it is understood that they are considering the through rate question very fully. The discussion on Tuesday and Wednesday gave the commissioners very little, if any, new light on the law in-volved. It is believed by many that the decision will be unanimous when it is made.

A BROADWAY BLAZE. Another Fire on the Old Site of the Theater

NEW YORK, April 22.-A few minutes before 7 o'clock this morning fire broke out on the upper floor of a six story brick building running from No. 58 to No. 66 Crosby street, and from No. 512 to No. 516 Broadway. This is a new building and is erected on the site of Harrigan and Hart's old Theater Comique, which burned some time ago. The fire broke out on the upper floor of No. 60. The building was occupied by August Bernheim & Baner, whole occupied by August Bernheim & Baner, wholesale dealers in clothing, and J. W. Goddard & and the loss is expected to be heavy.

The fire threatened one of the most valuable business blocks in the city. So fiercely and rapidly did the flames gain headway that three alarms were sent out. These were supplemented by several special signals, and soon a dozen fire engines were at work. When the fire was first discovered by a police officer the dozen fire engines were at work. When the fire was first discovered by a police officer the fiames were issuing from the windows on the fifth story, but before the firemen could reach the fire the two upper floors were one mass of flames. The building was provided with a brick roof and before this could be broken through to allow the firemen to get at the fire, the flames broke out on the Broadway front—getting thus a good draft the fire licked up everything before it and the flames rose higher and higher and grew higher each minute. The firemen before it and the names rose higher and higher and arew higher each minute. The firemen battered in the roof and walls and succeeded in directing streams of water on the blazing mass. An opening once made, scores of streams began to play upon the roaring flames, and in less than an hour the firemen had gained the upper hand of the flames.

August Bros, estimate the value of their stock at $50,000, while the stocks of Plusky & Simon & A. Lufer & Co., are placed at $125,000 more. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

A Residence Believed to Have Been Destroy ed by a Bomb.

Chicago, April 22.—According to published statements here there is grave reason to believe that the fire of Tuesday last, at the residence of Charles B. Kimbell, No. 175 Park avenue, was not only the work of an incendiary, but had direct connection with the actions of Kimbell's firm in the labor agitation of the last year or two. Kimbell is treasurer of the Singer & Talcott Stone company, which firm had considerable trouble with its quarrymen at Lemont during the general strike there a year ago, when two men were shot dead in the street by the state militia, which had been called out to quell the disturbances. Various attempts were made to induce ed by a Bomb. which had been called out to quell the disturbances. Various attempts were made to induce Mr Kimbell to discharge his non-union men, but without result. Close investigation leads to the conclusion that a destructive bomb was thrown into the parlor of his residence, nearly causing the death of his wife and son. The loss on the building is $6,000. The entire matter is constructed to the contraction of the contractions. ter is one of great mystery.

Dime Museum.

The Dime Museum opened last night to good sized audience. It was a splendid perform ance, and the mr um will succeed in the city. Mr. Fred Morti c, the manager, has secured some good specialties, and the museum is to be kept up to a high standard. The lightning crayon kept up to a high standard. The lightning crayon work of Bert Thompson was excellent. Mr. Thompson has the conception of an artist and exceutes his ideas rapidly and with great precision Miss Rebecca Goldburg, well known in the city, was very good, and received unstinted applause. One of the principal features was the aerial suspension of Miss Lucy Willand. This alone is worth the admission. Mr. Hensley and Miss Kathleen Hastings in their character acting were received with applause. All in all, the performance was excellent, and it deserves a good patronage. Ladies and children, and in fact all should visit it, as it is worth three times the admission. Mr. Mortimer says the museum has come here to stay, and only wants the people to come once, and knows they will come again. Let all go and pass a pleasant hour for a minimum sum.

GRANT PARK ITEMS.

The sulphur spring is well patronized. A refreshment stand is being erected near the ravilion.

The spring just outside of the park is said to be the purest water around Atlanta.

The Metropolitan street railroad company has received eight new cars, and intends to try to carry all the people to the park.

The city council should let Mr. Root have money enough to build two or three additional pavilions and to make the lake.

Arrangements are being made for open air concerts at Grant's park two or three times a week. The music will be the best to be had.

The Anderson street extension to the park and the Ormond street extension have both been passed up by the directors and President Rankin will order the iron today.

A Card from Mr. Root.

I find by careful investigation that the mischief done in the park night before last was by a party of rough boys who did not go on the street cars. The ladies and gentlemen who visited the park are among our best people, and would be incapable of doing wrong.

GET HIM INTO TROUBLE AND BE-

A Colored Citizen Who has Stood Well is Arrested red Citizen who has $1000 Well is Arrest urged With Bigamy—He Denies the Charge but Ris Own Testimony is All Against H:m—He Leaves and Comes Back.

James Wyatt was arrested last night upon a warrant charging him with bigamy.

Wyatt is a colored citizen.

About three years ago Wyatt married a saffron colored damsel, and the pair male a handsome colored couple. They lived at Wy-att's home on Cain street, and for a long time were happy, and were pointed to by their neighbors as a model couple. A year ago, however, Wyatt went to a dance where he meta girl, to whom

HE WAS INTRODUCED as Nannie Floyd. The girl was the belle of the evening. She was young and a graduate of one of the Atlanta celored colleges, and quickly captivated Wyatt. After that night Wyatt began to neglect his wife. He remained away from home more than ever before and when away from home was passing much of bis time with the college graduate. He began to provide poorly for his wife, and with his money bought presents for the woman whose pleasant ways had won his heart. Three months ago he ceased going to his home entirely. His wife, who knew nothing of HER HUSBAND'S NEW LOVE,

HER HUSBAND'S NEW LOVE, and was at a loss to account for his desertion, tried to win him back, and, as she supposed, succeeded. Soon after returning to his wife, however, Wyatt moved to Savannah. In that city he and his wife found employment with Judge Emory Speer—he as coachman, she as cook. For a while they got along nicely, but during that time Wyatt was sending letters to Atlanta regularly and as regularly receiving replies. Finally Wyatt could stand the separation from the college graduate no longer, and ration from the college graduate no longer, and a month ago came back to Atlanta, leaving his wife in Savannah. Soon after reaching Atlanta he called upon the girl, who knew nothing of

HIS FORMER MARRIAGE and in a short time was introducing her in the best colored society of the city, as his wife. But their honeymoon was brief. It was cut short by his cruelty to his wife No. 2. She could not stand the abuse and ran away. Wyatt, however, would not have her away, and a few days ago found her in a negro woman's house. He asked her to come home with him, but she declined, and when he attempted to compel her to go with him the tempted to compel her to go with him the negro woman objected and interfered. Wy-att then sought a policeman and had the wo-man arrested. The next morning he charged in police court that

THE WOMAN HAD HARBORED HIS WIFE and the woman was fined by Judge Anderson. The woman paid the fine and swore vengeance against Wyatt, and that day she accidently heard that Wyatt had a wife in Savannah. The woman traced the story until she found good authority for it, and then last night good authority for it, and then last night caused Wyatt's arrest on a warrant charging him with bigamy. Wyatt now admits that he has a wife in Savannah, but says that the woman he has been living with in Atlanta is not his wife. A colored preacher named Hill, who has known for years the woman now living in Atlanta, says that Wyatt married her. The preacher has taken the matter in hand, and says that he will see that Wyatt gets what the law ought to give him.

THE PROGRESS OF COLUMBIA. The Gem of Carolina - A Beautiful and Thrifty City-A Bright Outlook.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 22.—[Special.]—Columbia, noted for its beauty, healthfulness and attractiveness, now looms up as a manufacturing city. It is not a wild prediction to ven-ture that, two years after the completion of the canal. Columbia will have obtained the very foremost place among the manufacturing cries in the southern states. There are now cries in the southern states. There are now in paying operation within the limits of Columbia a large number of small factories of various sorts and several large ones. As far as the public is informed, all these industries have proved successful. The two large cotton seed oil mills now in operation are to be increased in capacity, and a third is to be erected near the others. The one owned and controlled by the Oliver brothers is said to be the largest, with one single exception, in the world. When enlarged in accordance with the plans of the proprietors, it will be second to none. These oil mills manufacture an excellent quality of fertilizer, which is rapidly superseding guano. Habernicht's rapidly superseding guano. Habernicht's large ice factory has paid so handsomely that an enterprising capitalist will start a rival concern. The shoe factory and hosiery mills concern. The sloe factory and hosiery mills connected with the South Carolina penitentiary bave expanded from time to time, and now are important industries. The Vienna bent wood factory is to be sold to a rich company that will enlarge the buildings and increase the force of operatives. The machine shops and car manufactories of the C. C. and A. railroad and the C. and G. railroad located here give ampleyment to a large number. located here, give employment to a large num-ber of skilled mechanics, master carpenters and trimmers and painters and decorators. The engines and cars turned out from these shops compare favorably with those made in Philadelphia or Patison. Lately a well equip-ped steam laundry has been established here. A soap factory is talked of, and a large flour A soap factory is talked of, and a large flour mill is almost sure to be built soon. The latest enterprise is one which none of the newspapers have mentioned yet, it is a brewery on the outskirts of the city, run by Mr. John C. Seegers, one of our liberal and useful townsmen, who has contributed as much as, if not more than any other man, toward the building up of Columbia. I am told that Mr. Seegers proposes to make the best beer, ale and porter. There is no reason why he cannot make as good beer as anybody else can make, and there is no reason why he should not be and there is no reason why he should not be able to supply the home trade and thus keep at home $50,000 or more that annually goes into the pockets of northern and western beer

PALMETTO POLITICAL POINTS.

Some Gossip About Politics in South Caro-COLUMBIA, S. C., April 22.-[Special.]-At present many prominent lawyers from the eastern part of the state are in Columbia at-tending the supreme court, and some pretty ively political talks have been indulged in by them. Last night they were casually discussing the approaching convention of the farmers and the proposed "new deal," a considerable majority of the controvertists being opposed nsjority of the controvertists being opposed to both. "I cannot," said an eminent attorney from Sumter county, "see any good in Farmer Tillman's movement. It will, if it accomplishes anything at all, do harm to the very class of people it is calculated to benefit—the planters. To array the husbandmen against lawyers doctors merchants artisans, and lawyers, doctors, merchants, artisans, and all others who do not derive a living from tilling the soil, is to array all these classes against the tarriers." The "new deal" idea was sat down upon by a well known lawyer, of Darlington county, in this way: "South Carolina now possesses as efficient and honest set of officials as she has ever been blessed with, and to turn them out merely to make places for new men would be madness. Why not retain these tried officers rather than entrust the government to new hands merely to satisfy the cry of the demagoguge. There has been so little political talk in Columbia up to the present time that the above expressions were interesting. From now till expressions were interesting. From now till the state convention meets there will be very little said shout politics, but after that body assembles the pot will boil.

Next Thursday the farmer's convention, which has elicited so much discussion in the newspapers, will assemble in this city. It will probably remain in session several days. Delegates will come from nearly all the counties. The originator of the movement, Captain R. R. Tillman, of Edgefield, will of course be here. No programme has yet been mapped out, so it is not easy to foresee what will be attempted. The meeting, however, promises to be very interesting. to be very interesting.

"Snagging" Snipe by the Light of the Moon The genial and popular Wall street ticket broker, Mr. R. G. McFerran, joined the "Joree' club a few nights ago, and was given all the derees in snipe hunting.

Mc left the club's headquarters under the folgrees in snipe hunting.

Mc left the club's headquarters under the following estort:

Make Sharp, grand bush shaker; Clyde Bostick, tugler; Will Henderson, snipe coacher; Bob Owens, locater of sack holders; Tom McCandless, outside light: Renzo Jones, swamp guide; Joe Hammerslinger (recently initiated), looker out.

After a two hour's march the club halted at Pine street bridge, near Ponce DeLeon springs, for a rest, and then proceeded up Tad Pole branch for several miles, until a beautiful bend in Peachtree creek was discovered. Here the second halt was made, and "Mc" was selected as sack holder, who arranged his sack, and laid down upon the sand with the sack open to await developments. The bugler gave the signal to the snipe coacher that everything was ready, and Make Sharp was seen to give Clyde Bostick a "joree" sign, which was passed to Will Henderson, and went the rounds with a meaning, and in a few minutes the entire squad, like the Arabs, "took up their tents and silently stole away," leaving "Mc" and the owls to "fight it out." About the dawn of morning a slight April shower came up, and "Mc," fearing the creek would rise, "hit the grit," and skipped by the light of the moon.

En route he encountered several barb wire fences of the various plantations, over which he passed reaching the city slightly disfigured, one barb wire having intercepted him about midway between the bangs and eyes. Mc. says that the wet foot logs delayed his schedule several hours. He is now a full-fiedged member of the "Joree club," and holds the title of grand mogul of sack holders.

The com-mittee of strikers kept at work at the switchmittee of strikers kept at work at the switchmen who had been imported by the railroad company. They argued with them; they begged them to show themselves men and get out of the car. They told them:

"The castle you are in now will tumble down and the railroad magnates will be buried with you in the ruins."

Up to five o'clock fifteen of the new men

THE THIRD AVENUE STREET CARS.

NEW YORK, April 22.—At 10 o'clock this morning forty-five cars were running on the Third avenue road. Five hundred police were on hand—half of them were posted along the avenue and half massed at the nearest stationhouses. Only two slight disturbances occurred. The result of the ses-sion of the executive board of the strikers on Wednesday night and Thursday morning was not announced to the men till this morning. A representative of the executive committee states that the board has determined that the strike shall be confined to the Third avenue road, unless in case of a combination of the roads. The strikers are warned to keep away from Third avenue during the strike. The men will be paid from the funds of the associa-tion as though they were at work. The ques-tion of a general tie up will be held in abeyance.

The Third avenue cars were stopped and the stables closed at 7:30 tonight, an hour earlier than on Wednesday night, at the request of Inspector Steers and to give the police needed rest. Twenty officers were left to guard the depot. During the day fifty-eight cars were running under four minutes headway to the city hall and under eight minutes headway to Harlem.

BOYCOTTING THE CHAMPION REAPER.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—The executive board of the Ohio Trade and Labor assembly has promulgated a manifesto boycotting the Champion machine company, of Springfield, for alleged discrimination against the Knights earlier than on Wednesday night, at the re for alleged discrimination against the Knights of Labor. The circular rehearses at length the attempt made by the labor organization to arbitrate the matter of difference between W. N. Whitely and his employes, and appeals to all fair-minded men to withhold their patronage nair-minded men to withhold their patronage from the Champion company until such time as the organization manifests a willingness to treat its men as free American citizens and adjusts the present difficulty by arbitration. SUGAR REFINERIES SHUT DOWN. NEW YORK, April 22.—All of great sugar refineries in Williamsburg and Greenpoint, with but two exceptions, were locked up this morning and the workmen went on strike. It was not unexpected, as the owners refused to grant the requests of men for shorter hours and more pay. There were always certain re-pairs to be made about the sugar houses and the owners say that these can now be attended to. They also have a large quantity of sugar on hand and profess to regard the situation with equanimity. The men who struck have been receiving $1.35 per day and asked for THE BALTIMORE STRIKE ENDED.

BALTIMORE April 22.—The strike of the car drivers was broken today, and all the tied-up lines had their cars running. On some of the lines the full number of cars have not yet been sent out, but it is expected that all of them will run full tomorrow. A considerable number of the old drivers have lost their employber of the old drivers have lost their employ-ment, the companies refusing to dismiss those who aided them in their necessity. The prompt action of the police department in sup-pressing any attempt at outbreak and arresting violators of law helped materially in restoring the former condition of several of the lines. Old prices are maintained.

DECISIONS RENDERED TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1886.

Hon James Jackson, Chief Justice; Hons. Samu Hall and M. H. Blandford, Justices-Reported for The Constitution by J. H. Lumpkin, Supreme Court Reporter.

Hollis vs. State. Fornication and adultery, from Chattahoochee. Witness. Evidence (Before Judge Willis.)

Blandford, J.-Where, on the trial of an indictment for fornication, the defendant proposed to prove what the presecutrix had sworn before a justice of the peace in a trial for ba-tardy, such testimony could only be admissi-ble for the purpose of impeaching the prosecutrix as a witness, and no foundation there for having been laid by asking if she had so testified, it was properly rejected.

Judgment affirmed.

Singer Sewing Machine Co, vs. Barnett, constable. Rule from Whitfield. Constables, Officers. Executions. Levy and Sale. (Before Index Fair)

Officers. Executions. Levy and Sale. (Before Judge Fain.)
Blandford, J.—A constable cannot protect himself against a rule brought against him for not making the money due on a fi. fa. placed in his hands, on the ground that the execution did not follow the judgment under which it issued. It is the duty of a ministerial officer to execute every process placed in his hands which is regular and proper on its face and which is issued by a person having authority to do so; and the fact that it may be voidable because it does not follow the judgment, is no because it does not follow the 'judgment, is no defense to him for failing to make the money thereunder. 19 Ga., 139, 268; Gladden, sh'ff, vs. Cobb. (Sept. Term, 1884.)
Judgment reversed.
W. C. Glenn, for plaintift in error.
T. R. Jones, by brief, for defendant.

Jackson vs. Georgia Railroad. Case, from Morgan. Railroads. Damages. Negligence, Nonsuit. Master and Servant. (Before Judge Lawson.)
Blandford, J.—In an action against a railroad company for personal injuries resulting from the all of a derrick used in digging a well for defendant, the plaintiff testified, in brief, as follows: One Palmer had charge of the work in digging the well; plaintiff was employed by him, and he and his father were the section bosses. On Tuesday morning plaintiff was at work; Palmer ordered him to go on top of the derrick and loosen one of the guy poles. He said to Palmer that he had heard that something had cracked or broken about the derrick, and asked if there was any danger. Palmer cursed, and said he could do as he was ordered, or leave—that there was no danger. Plaintiff went up carefully, and suc ceeded in unscrewing one nut, when a guy pole below broke, and the derrick fell, throwing im some twenty feet to the ground, whereh

e was injured, etc.: Held, that the evidence tended to show negligence on the part of the defendant, and the grant of a non-suit was error. Judgment revers error, J. A. Billups, for defendant.

Lee vs. State. Murder, from Marion. Criminal Law. Verdict. (Before Judge Willis.)
Blandford, J.—1. In a criminal case the corpus delicti should be established beyond a reasonable doubt, or a conviction should not be had.

2. In this case the evidence was not sufficient to show that the child, for whose murder the defendant was indicted, came to its death at the defendant's hands.

Common porus plasters—which you ean get for a song at any of the Cheap John druggists—you have merely thrown away your money, for one Benson's Caprine Plaster is worth them all. The reason is this: Benson's is the only porous plaster in the market that is honestly and skillfully made, and scientifically medicated. Others are no more than nominal imitations of Benson's. They are cheap because they possess none of the ingredients which render Benson's valuable. The latter are prompt to act, pleasant to wear, and cure in a few hours aliments which others will not even relieve. The public are especially warned against so-oalled "Capsicin," "Capscum," "Capscum," or "Capscine" plasters, as worthless articles intended to deceive. Ask for Benson's and look for the "Three Seals" trademark and the word "Capcine" out in the center.

NEW YORK, April 22—C. L. Green & Co., in their report on cotton futures today, say: More business is doing, and under considerable unloading of long is doing, and under considerable unloading of long cotton, especially for May, carried prices off some 5@6 points. Offerings, however, were met and in a measure neutralized by covering on the part of shorts, who were willing to take their profit on the break made, and the close brought a partial recovery with a steader tone. The holldays at hand acted as an incentive to considerable dealing in liquidation on both sides of the market.

Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, April 22—Holders or wheat began unloading in great quantities on the market early in the session today. The starting price was 80% for May, from which it rallied to 30% on a continus

The market again became steadier, rallying ½c, and finally closed at 10 clock fe under resterday. In the afternoon the feeling was greatly unsettled, but the market finally closed ½c higher. Signing the Bonds,—State Treasurer R. U. Hardeman expects to complete the task of signing the new Georgia bonds by Saturday night. He has been made sore all over by the exacting labor. When he completes his task he will have signed his name 216,973 times. THE INJUNCTION REFUSED.-Judge Richard

THE INJUNCTION REFUSED.—Judge Richard H. Clarke yesterday heard the case of T. J. Harper et al. vs. the Southview colored cometery. The injunction was refused, but the restraining order is to remain in force until the case can be heard in the supreme court at the present term.

A BEAUTIFUL BICYCLE.—Yesterday Mr. Charles H. Smith. of Phillips & Crew's, received a beautiful Columbia expert bicycle, nickel plated throughout, ball-bearing and Kirkpatrick saddle. The machine looks like a solid piece of silver, and is the prettiest in the city. It cost $140. There are about fifteen wheelmen in the city.

DEATH OF MRS. KIDWELL.—Mrs. Robert Kidwell died at her home, 28 Hill street, yesterday at half-past eleven o'clock, after an illness of several weeks, Mrs. Kidwell was the widow of Mr. Robert Kidwell, who was killed on the East Tennessee road in February, 1883, while running as engineer. Her remains were embalmed by Patterson & Bowden, in order to preserve them until her brother, who lives in Virginia, reaches the city. The deceased was a most excellent lady.

HE HAD A FIT.—Quite an excitement was created on Whitehall street near Ryan's yesterday by an old gentleman dropping suddenly and limply on the sidewalk. The way the old gentleman dropped caused every person near by to think that he was dead. Several persons ran to the gentleman and carried him into Schumann's drug store where it was ascertained that he was in a fit. In the course of a few minutes the old gentleman came around all right. He was a stranger to all present and declined to give his name.

COMMISSIONS ISSUED.-Yesterday was COMMISSIONS ISSUED.—Yesterday was a field day in the executive office at the capitol for issuing commissions. By order of Governor McDaniel commissions were issued to eight notaries public and five county commissioners. They were as follows: Notaries public in Carroll county, William Jones, 729 district; J. Murphy, for terms

Almost Lockjaw.—Frank Owens, a fourteen year-old boy, whose home is on Hill avenue, came very near dying from lockjaw yesterday. Several days ago the boy was walking through the yard and stepped upon a nail which penetrated his foot. As the nail entered the flesh the boy jumped and the nail broke off. The boy's mother attempted to pull the nail out, but failed and nothing further was done until day before yesterday, when the foot began to swell. The boy suffered intensely, and yesterday morning was seized with spasms. Dr. Harper was called in, and after extracting the nail succeeded in quieting him. Late last night Owens was resting quietly, and will likely have no more trouble.

HE STILL LIVES.—Engineer Jack Wright.

HE STILL LIVES .- Engineer Jack Wright, who was so seriously injured in the accident at Silver creek Wednesday night was alive yesterday and in much better condition than he has been and in much better condition than he has been at any time since his engine was thrown from the track. If his condition will admit he will be returned to Rome today. The road is doing everything in its power to trace the crime to its source, and will leave no stone unturned in its efforts to find the guilty parties. There is now no question about the intention of the train-wreckers. They knew nothing of the approaching freight train, because it was so much behind the time for it to have passed, and put the lobstruction on the track for the north bound passenger train. The crosstie which threw the engine off the track was torn and mashed into tooth picks.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.—The board of aldermen convened in regular session yesterday morning. There were present Mayor Hillyer and Messrs. Stockdell, Cooper, Gramling and Hutchison. The board discussed the petition authorizing opening and widening Foster street. The council passed the work, but the board deferred action until every member could be present. The board also deferred action on the award of damages to R. W. McCown and Mrs. Freeman, on Marietta street, the electric light corner of Peters and Whitehall streets, and curbing and grading on Simpson street. The board concurred in the action of the council in building sewer on Houston street, between Jackson and Hilliard streets, also to work out Scott street, to repair Chappel street; to lay curbing and sidewalk on West Fair, from Hill street; to repair Anderson street culvert, subject to action of special committee appointed by council to investigate the liability of contractor to make good the damaged work. THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN .- The board of

AT THE CITY PRISON.

WHAT THE PATROLMEN TALKED ABOUT LAST NIGHT.

oof Piscatorial Artists Visit the Waterwoo and and Begin a Night's Fishing, but the Watehman Comes Up and Stops the Fun —What Resse, the Rack Driver, Paid.

The waterworks pond is alive with fish, but there is an ordinance prohibiting any one from fishing in the pond.

Laws, however, do not keep people piscatorially inclined from fishing, and this morning a trio of fishermen will be arraigned in police court and asked to enter a plea to the charge of fishing in the waterwork's pond. They are Tony Mathews, Charley Hill and Linton Lee, all colored. Last night the trio approached the pond, and taking the shady side threw baited hooks into the water. In no time each cork floating up the surface began to bob up and down, and when the fish started away with the hook the fisherman gave it a pull and landed a good muddy cat on the land. But while the men were fishing Watchman Belcher was moving noiselessly around and at the correct time stepped into the knot of men. They were more surprised at the appearance of the watchman than they would have been had they landed a whale. The watchman escorted the three men to the city prison, where they were booked for fishing court and asked to enter a plea to the charge city prison, where they were booked for fishing in the waterworks pond. This morning in police court they will attempt to induce Judge Anderson to believe that they caught only one minnow, but the judge knows that the waterworks pond carries nothing but big fish.

REFALING INTO A CAR.

REEAKING INTO A CAB.

Last night Conductor Longley's cab on the Western and Atlantic railroad was broken into and several articles of wearing apparel were stolen. Watchman Kendrick detected the burglary, and in a short while discovered a darkey lurking about the yards. When the watchman approached the darkey he ran, but the watchman was too swift of foot and soon overtook the darkey, who had some of the stolen articles in his possession. At police headquarters the prisoner gave his name as Charles McKeever.

Charles McKeever.

FIFTEEN AND COST.

Bob Reese, the hack driver who ran over the small boy day before yesterday at the Kimball house, was fined fifteen dollars and seventy five cents by Judge Anderson in police court yesterday morning.

William Sutten raised a war yell in Brooklyn last night and was hauled to police head-unarters in Black Maria.

lyn last night and was named to posses head quarters in Black Maria.

The patrol wagon has been sent to Brooklyn oftener than to any other portion of the city. The houses, as soon as they pull the "Black Maria" out of the stationhouse lane, head right for Brooklyn.

POLICE COMMISSION.

The Board Convenes in Called Session and Fires Three Members of the Force.

The board of police commission convened in called session last night for the purpose of investigating charges against a half dozen members of the force.

The full board was present. Mayor Hillyer

The full board was present. Mayor Hillyer was also present.

Two members of the force. Messrs. Sheridan and Baker, were arraigned and asked to plead to the charge of neglect of duty. The evidence showed that a burglary had occurred on their beat one night last week, and that, although they had been vigilent, they might have been more so, and prevented the burglary. The board did not think that the men were responsible in anyway for the burglary, but decided to give the two patrolmen a suspension of ten days as a warning to other members of the force.

E. B. Purdy, a supernumerary member, was ing to other members of the force.

E. B. Purdy, a supernumerary member, was charged with being drunk while off duty. He entered a plea of not not guilty, and claimed that upon the day in question he was sick and stepped into Magnus & Hightower's drug store and got a dose of medicine which made him sicker. He called upon Patrolman Mercer to show that he was sick and not drunk. Patrolman Mercer was sick and not drunk. Patrolman Mercer, however, stated that he was drunk and that he had two bottles of liquor in his pockets. The board, after hearing the evidence, decided

The board, after hearing the evidence, decided that Patrolman Purdy was guilty, and dismissed him from the force.

During the session the resolution Mr. Cooper introduced in the city council at the last meeting, was taken up. The resolution provides for a week's rest for each member of the force during the summer. When Mr. Cooper introduced the resolution he stated that no set of resolution in the site? of men in the city's service were harder worked and poorer paid than a policeman, and that they needed the rest but were unable to lose the time. Mr. Cooper urged the council to show its appreciation of the good service the force was doing by adopting the resolution, but it was referred to the board. Mr. George I. Seney arrived in Atlanta from Athens yesterday morning.

A CONSTITUTION reporter climbed into the car at the union passenger depot, and found Mr. Seney and his wife and daughters preparing to be transferred to the depot of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad. A little girl, the daughter of Mrs. Plummer, was scempering about, evidently highly delighted at the prospect of another railroad journey.
"We are just from Athens," Mr. Seney said,
"where we were present at the marriage of Mr. Billups Phinzy and Miss Nellie Stovall."

"Will you remain long in Atlanta?" the re-porter inquired.
"We leave for Macon today. Wo shall spend tomorrow and Saturday there, returning to Atlants Saturday night. Sanday, we shall spend in Atlanta, returning to New York Monday."

"Your trip has doubtless been a pleasant one? "Oh, yes, very pleasant. Our friends in Georgia have been very kind, so that we shall return to our home with none but pleasant memories."

Mr. Serey and his family left for Macon at 4 o'clock via. the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad.

Rev. C. M. Beckwith Knows Nothing of His Call to Houston.
Yesterday afternoon a Constitution man called upon Rev. C. M. Beckwith and asked him several questions concerning the telegram in yesterday's paper relative to his call to Christ's church, Houston, Texas. "I know nothing of it," he replied. "You have received no intimation of such a thing?"

"Of course then, you couldn't say whether you would accept the call or not?"

"Certainly not. What have I done that you all want to run me out?" he asked laughingly.

Prater says he don't want better pudding than to do Ford up.
Yesterday evening a Constitution man saw Prater at his home on Decatur street.

"How do you fee!"
"Like a Jersey lily." was the reply.
"Been in training?"
"Of course. I have."
"How long?"
"Well, ever since the circus tent match. I expected Ford to come down on me, and I wanted to be ready for him."
"Then, you are ready?"
"Yes, and if I don't beat him a mile in ten I will eat Boston beans for the next twelve months, or promise to live in Macon the balance of my life."
"Terrible afflictions."
"Yes, but that's just the size of it."
"Well, how about the money?"
"That part is fixed."
"Bow much?"
"Five hundred for ten miles."
"When will the race come of?"
"I want it Tuesday next."

Some Interesting Cases Disposed of in the Courts.

Judge McCay disposed of considerable business yesterday in the United States courts.

In the circuit court in the case of the state vs. Leroy C. Brown, J. W. Brown and A. J. Matthews, suit on breach of mail route bidder's bond, was dismissed on compromise.

C. W. Belton vs. the Georgia Pacific road, and Henry Fink, receiver of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, was dismissed by plaintiff, the case having been settled.

missed by plaintiff, the case having been settled.

Mr. Belton was injured in the accident on the Georgia Pacific railroad, when there were several killed and a number injured. He was scalded all over, and for many weeks it was thought he would die. He was working with J. Pierce Weaver, or, J. W. Pierce, the wealtby Texas cattleman, who was killed, and about whom there has been so much written. What the compromise was, or which road paid the money to Mr. Belton, is not known. Mr. Belton, it is understood, received ten thousand dollars. He sued for twenty thousand. There is still pending against the two roads suits amounting to more than two hundred thousand dollars.

In the case of the Patapseo guano company vs. Huntington, Wright & Co., et al., bill in equity, a decree was rendered.

In the district court James Turner, charged with illicit retailing, case nol pros'd.

It may appear a little singular, but the district court yesterday tried a mule, wagon and one set of harness for violating the internal revenue laws. The mule was not in court, the wagon was not there and the harness failed to show up. Joseph Conyers, claimant, however appeared, and after his statement Judge McCay dismissed the case. The case was filed in 1880.

The United States jury box has been revised and the jury drawn from all the counties in the northern district.

Preparing the Badges.*
Quite a number of the members of the Ladies' Memorial association assembled at the Markham house yesterday morning. They were received by Mrs. John Milledge, president of the association. Their object was to prepare badges to be worn on Memorial day by members of the Fulton County Confederate Veterans' association, An ample supply was provided.

The Railroad Question. There are many versions just now to this important question, and it would take much time and space to define them all fully. One thing is certain, notwithstanding the differences of opinion on this subject, all agree that Baseball tobacco is the best. Popular, because reliable.

I have a buyer in New York who is ever or

The meetings for boys only, held in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association, have been the means of doing much good. At the last meeting there were thirteen conversions. Quite a number of these have united with churches, and are now exmestly at work. The association should have the earnest co-operation of every Christian in this work. All boys under seventeen years of age are cordially invited to attend the meeting this afternoon at 60'clock. Mr. Starke will address the meeting. His subject will be Love. All boys who come this afternoon will be given two tickets to the boys' entertainment, which takes place next Friday.

Atlants Finds Augusta too Strong and Loses Another Game-What Manager Purcell Says-Savannah Gets a Whipping at the Hands of Mem-phis-Nashville Defeats Macon.

The result of yesterday's games was a surt prise all around. Atlanta's second defeat th Augusta was unlooked for and caused a general feeling of regret. Purcell's admirers certainly expected him to win the game. Sevan-nah scored her first defeat of the season, and Memphis showed up well in the victory over Manager Martin. Dundon occupied the box for Nashville in Macon, and his team won after a close, hard fight. Chattanooga proved too much for Charleston and got the second victory.

Manager Purcell's Report.

Augusta, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—The Atlanta and Augusta clubs played here today, Angusta winning by eight to four. The Augusta club played a remarkable fine fielding game. Some of their stops and catches were of the police order. Everything seemed to go against Atlanta. Kimber pitched a poor game. Oline done the batting for Atlanta. Moore played his position in fine style, and batted very well but in very bad luck. Sylvester made a remarkable fine catch of one of his hit shat he dombled the side upon. Lyons played to third in flue shape.

The Game in Augusta.

The Game in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—The game today was witnessed by a fair crowd of ball admirers, and proved a comparatively easy victory for Augusta. The features were the costly errors of Cline, the fair work of Brown, double plays of Augusta (3), lack of interest displayed, the field work of Purcell, the batting by Moore, the hits of Harbridge, Kappell and Sutcliff, the base running of Hogan and Cline, and the absence of cosching. McQuaid, umpire, ayain conflicted conching, McQuaid, umpire, again conflicted with the crowd on close decisions, only a few dis-senters being heard from, however. Brown pitched a splendid game, considering that his hand was split, and he pleaded with the umpire and cap-tain that he be allowed to retire from the game. He was forced to continue, however, and showed pup fine inthe box afternoon between Nashville and Macon. It was won by the former, the score being five to three. Nashville put Dundon in the box and McVey to catch. Macon pitched Maloy, right fielder, owing to the sickness of Miller, pitcher, with Harter catch. Macon's defeat was expected, as Maloy never pitched a professional game, doing exceedingly well, holding down the Nashville sluggers to eight hits, his only drawback giving eight men bases on balls. Dundon pitched effective ball, getting seven hits off him. The pool in today's winners padd $15 for $1, as both clubs were evenly matched. Bets are about even here on Saturday's winners here between Nashville and Macon.

The score is as follows:

The committee of confederate veterans met the committee of the Hill monument associa-tion on yesterday, and and a full agreement as to the reception of Mr. Davis.

The Hill committee had made full arrangements for bringing Mr. Davis to Atlanta and receiving him. Through the courtesy of Mr. Julius L. Brown, a handsome car had been furnished for conveying the Hill committee to Montgemery, and Mr. Davis and his guests to Atlanta. The committee of confederate vet-erans has secured the "Patmos," the handsomest car that can be had, and will go down with the Hill committee after Mr. Davis. A special engine will be provided, and the cars of the two committees, and perhaps one additional car for music, will be made a special train to leave Montgomery just after the morning train, and follow it to Atlanta.

VISITING EX-CONFEDERATES.

The following address to the ex-confederates of Georgia is intended to bring together upon the occasion of Mr. Davis's visit as many of his old soldiers as possible. To aid in carrying out this intention, all the papers of the state are requested to re-publish the address:

The president and commander of the Fulton county confederate veterans' association has appointed a committee of reception with Dr. Amos Fox chairman, to whom all visiting ex-confederate soldiers are requested to report on their arrival at the depot on the occasion of the unveiling of the Hill monument. It is suggested that the soldiers from each county, as far as practicable, come in a body, as' well organized as possible. Suitable position in the procession will be assigned them with the Fulion county veterans. Mr. Davis, our old commander-in-chief, will pass the veterans in review, and desired to give him a reception that will assure him he still holds a warm place in the hearts of his old soldiers.

All who have not badges will be supplied with them by the secretary of Fulion County Veterans on their arrival here.

DAVIS AND THE SCHOOL CHILDREN.
At a meeting of the board of education yesterday, the following resolution was agreed to:
Whereas, The approaching visit of ex-President Davis to Atlanta will be an oceasion of rare historic interest, not only to the veterans in the cause of which he was the distinguished head, but also to the children now growing up, who will treastre the remembrance of his face, therefore be it Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, together with Superintendent Slaton, to arrange for a reception of the school children by Mr. Davis, at such hour on Friday evening as may be convenient.

The committee appointed is composed of Messrs. P. J. Moran, W. A. Hemphill and J. T. Glenn. The plan agreed upon is for the schools to be dismissed at 12 m., on Friday next, so that the children may all report back at their respective schools at probably 3 p. m., when, under charge of their respective principals and teachers they will march to the residence of Mrs. B. H. Hill on Peachtree street. Mr. Davis will there be seated upon a platform, and the different schools will file slowly by, thus giving the scholars a good chance to see the distinguished chief. The details of the whole affair will be in the hands of Superintendent Slaton, who will confer with the principals. All the private schools of the city are requested to report for places to Superintendent Slaton. It is estimated that not less than six thousand five hundred children will be in at

THE CONFEDERATE VETERANS' ASSOCIATION.
The Fulton County Confederate Veterans' association continues to increase in numbers.
Yesterday quite a large number sent in their names, either to President W. A. Wright or names, either to President W.A. Wright or Secretary B. J. Davis, requesting that they be allowed to become members. In some instances old soldiers called on President Wright in person, and expressed their gratification on account of the formation of the association. Each had a reminiscence to tell, and in the telling seemingly became rejuvenated and full of fire. The approaching unveiling of the Hill monument and the visit of Mr. Davis were eagerly discussed.

A proposition is being quietly discussed to have the Fulton County Veterans' association adopt a plan whereby similar organizations may be formed all over the state. It is urged that the ex-confederates should no longer delay to
